There was once an old man that he thought a lot about when he is going to die. So he said: "When the time comes, the Death, will tell me so that I get ready."

After some time, the Death appeared and said:
"Get ready ... next week I will come to take you."
The old man got panicked.

After spending all week looking to find a way to escape from dying, he says: "I found it! I will disguise to a baby".

“I will wear diapers, I will take a pacifier and I will get into a baby cradle. When Death comes he will think that I am a baby and he will not get me.”

And so he did. He also took a bowl of cream, he sat in the cradle and started eating it while waiting for the Death to come.

Finally, Death arrived and saw him at this state shouting "MAM, MAM ..."

But Death was not tricked. He turned at him and said: "Come on, eat your food, because we will go for a long walk'.
